

SKYBOLT

Designer LaMar Steen supervised the construction of the prototype—his high school students built it.

Interior is roomy, and safety-conscious Steen installed dual controls and three seatbelts plus harnesses for each seat.

Tobison's cockpit area is built of seven-eighths chrome-moly. Control system, except rudder cables, is all tube.

